AUTOMOBILE SPEEDERS HAVE FINES REDUCED

Tell Jury of Extenuating Circumstances, and Get Off With Light Sentences.

HEWITT GIVEN TERM ON ROADS

Convicted of Using Money Paid Him as Advance on Materials for Purchase of Drink—Jury Declines to Release Him.

"The man who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client" lost caste in the eyes of the jury yesterday as a tried and tested formula of human experience. Two automobile speeders, bleeding their own cases before the jury, succeeded in having their fines reduced from $100 to $10.

It was brought out in the case of Joseph Floyd, indicted for a similar charge. He took the stand as his own counsel and told of the extenuating circumstances which he thought, softened his offense. The jury was impressed and reduced his fine to $10.

TWO MONTHS ON ROADS

Walter S. Hewitt, indicted for a similar charge, pleaded that he was a victim of a conspiracy, but the jury thought otherwise and gave him two months in jail.

According to the police, Hewitt spent the $5 deposit for a far different product, and was locked up in the Henrico County Jail on the charge of being intoxicated. In the meantime, however, he had his young son after the remaining $2.50, and he disposed of that sum, too. He was arrested on the charge of larceny.

Before the jury yesterday, Hewitt testified that Mrs. Francis had merely trusted him with the money, and that it was his intention to complete the wallpapering as soon as he had a chance. In proof of this, he offered to go to work on the job at once if he were released. The jury declined to release him.

PARDONS ARE REFUSED

Governor Stuart yesterday refused a pardon in the case of Carter, convicted of attempted assault in Scott County and sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary in 1907.

The Governor also declined to intervene in the case of Riley Pressley, sent up for five years from Wise County, and V. S. Wyrick, sentenced for attempted assault to three years in prison, from Pulaski County.

LECTURES ON GERMAN UNIVERSITY IDEALS

Professor Dingus Compares Kaiser's With American Educational Practices.

KEYNOTE IS INTELLECTUALISM

Says Teuton Ideal Consists in Sharpening the Intellect and Loading the Memory With Concentration on Narrowed Field.

German university life and university ideals afforded Professor L. R. Dingus, of Richmond College, yesterday an interesting material for an illuminating lecture before the college community. The address was one of the year's last one of which will be given Tuesday afternoon by Professor W. J. Young, of the department of philosophy. His subject will be "Why the Mind Has a Body."

In his lecture on German university life yesterday, Professor Dingus emphasized to those points which present a distinct contrast with American university and college ideals. Professor Dingus recently returned from Germany, where he spent several years in study at the Universities of Berlin and Marburg.

The government of the German university, the system of instruction, the character of the student body and the quality of the output, said Professor Dingus, are all radically different from the corresponding phases of American university life.

ALL UNIVERSITIES UNDER EXAMINATION

"To begin with," said the lecturer, "the twenty-two German universities are all state universities. Each of the great German universities is financed and managed—so far as it is managed from the outside—by the government."

The atmosphere of the German university, to have permeate a German university with the ideal of German university, is that of a pure and earnest intellectual enthusiasm, with energy confined to a narrow, limited field. Education to the German thus consists in the sharpening of the intellect and the loading of the memory. If academic training is designed to focus the attention on one portion of the field of science and one point in this portion, then the German method is well-nigh perfect.

MULHOLLAND GUEST OF ROTARY CLUB

National President Speaks at Dinner at Manufacturers' Exhibit.

"BUY RICHMOND-MADE GOODS"

Committee to Foster Spirit of Using Articles Bearing Richmond Trade-Mark.

The spirit of Rotary—look up, lead up, lift up and lean not on another—was the message which Frank L. Mulholland, president of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, brought to the Richmond Rotary Club at its meeting in the Richmond Manufacturers' Exhibit last night.

President Mulholland proved to be as live a wire had been predicted, and the 200 Rotarians who attended the meeting in his honor listened to one of the greatest boosting speeches made in Richmond in months; for President Mulholland is an orator and an interesting speaker as well, and he simply caught the members of the local Rotary Club with his Rotary smile, his stories of Rotarians and his Rotary and contagious good fellowship.

Before adjourning to the auditorium on the tenth floor, members of the club were served dinner in the clubrooms of the Manufacturers' Exhibit. After the speech of the evening had been delivered, the various prizes given by the Manufacturers' Exhibit, and the Rotary Club, were presented to the club members at the booths in the Manufacturers' Exhibit, and members of the club smiled, his stories of Rotarians and his Rotary and contagious good fellowship.

WILL FOSTER USE OF RICHMOND-MADE GOODS

A short business session of the club was held in the auditorium immediately after the dinner. President Mulholland had thanked President Mulholland for his address. George Rogers offered a motion having for its purpose the gift of $100 by the Rotary Club to the Manufacturers' Exhibit, and after some discussion this matter was turned over to the Manufacturers' Exhibit Committee. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler reminded the club that it had promised assistance some time ago in the proposed industrial survey of the city, and stated that the results of this survey would be announced in the afternoon meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Manufacturers' Exhibit, Thursday at 2 o'clock. He was anxious that the Rotary Club be well represented at that meeting.

The following resolution, offered by H. Fleming, was accepted by the club. Resolved, That the president of the Richmond Rotary Club be requested to appoint a committee of three from the membership of the club to act with the executive committee of the Manufacturers' Exhibit for the purpose of fostering among our citizens the movement of "buy Richmond-made goods."

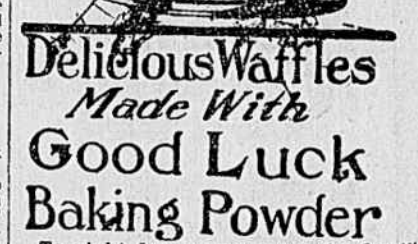

President Mulholland, who presided at the meeting, Frank Brown, of the Manufacturers' Exhibit, President of the Manufacturers' Exhibit, and in turn, introduced President Mulholland as the speaker.

"Rotarians should be leaders and lifters, but never leaners," said President Mulholland. "A genial smile opens the windows of every one's soul and makes a person ready to lend a message of Rotarianism. It is fundamental to good-fellowship, and is a great asset to the Rotarian."

President Mulholland went on to say that good-fellowship was the modern means to commerce, and exemplified it by the example of a fellow Rotarian whom you did not particularly care in Richmond, but the same effusion in your home town as you would do if you ran across him in a strange city. He said that it meant putting the spirit into the work of the Rotary Club.

In stating that every Rotarian was an optimist, the national president said that an optimist is the man who sees the fry-cake, while the pessimist is one who takes the lemonade of life. He said that if given the choice of two evils, will take both.

You have no right to live in Richmond, no right to take the profits of your business, no right to share its educational advantages for your children nor its social advantages for your family unless you give back your time, your energy and your means to perpetuate those advantages. The president emphasized. And in concluding, President Mulholland said the theory of Rotary Clubs and national organizations was to smile always, to get along with every good movement and push it along and to give something of yourself to the work.

SCHOOL DEDICATED

Bishop O'Connell Speaks at Opening of St. Patrick's New Building.

The handsome new school buildings of St. Patrick's parish, corner Twenty-sixth and Grace Streets, was dedicated yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Bishop J. D. O'Connell, with appropriate exercises. Several prominent Catholic societies took part in the ceremonies, including Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Gill Catholic Union, Holy Name Society and the Immaculate Conception Society.

Bishop O'Connell, immediately after the dedication exercises, delivered an address, which was followed by an excellent musical program. The new school building is one of the most modern in the city. It was designed by Marcellus Wright and constructed by James Fox & Son.

The presentation of an American flag to the school by the Knights of Columbus was a feature of the dedication exercises.

DAMAGE SUIT WILL BE CALLED FOR TRIAL TO-DAY

Fannie E. Thompson Sues Seaboard Air Line Railway for $10,000 as Result of Accident.

Trial will be begun in the Hustings Court, Part II, to-day in the case of Fannie E. Thompson against the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company.

Fannie E. Thompson, an administrator, is suing the company for $10,000 damages for the death of A. W. Thompson.

Thompson's wagon, in which he was riding, was struck by a train on the morning of January 14 at the Second Street crossing of the railroad, and he was so badly injured that he died the next day.

A peculiarity of the case is that Thompson, at the time of his death, was under indictment for murder, being charged with killing Joseph W. Rainey. The case had not come to trial before he was killed. Thompson was engaged in a fist fight with Rainey on December 20 of last year and knocked his head on the street curb, fracturing his skull, from which he never recovered.

The board's action followed a recommendation from Superintendent Cohn that receptacles of this kind be placed at suitable points on the principal business streets of the city. The movement is in line with the clean-up campaign which is being pushed vigorously by the Street Cleaning Department and the police.
